ABOUT FOCUS INC. USA

FOCCUS (Facilitating Open Couple Communication, Understanding and Study) is an outstanding tool for trained lay facilitators or professionals who are helping couples prepare for marriage. By responding independently to the 156 item inventory, couples indicate their level of agreement, disagreement, or indecision about statements related to issues such as communication, problem-solving, religion, dual careers, cohabitation, parenting, sexuality, finances and more.

FOCCUS...

- offers a personalized couple report for targeting discussion on a host of topics known to be important to marital success.
- is not a test and is not used to label couples or predict marital outcome. Rather, the FOCCUS report is used by the facilitator to help couples celebrate strengths in their relationship and talk with each other about topics warranting further attention.
- provides a detailed FOCCUS manual giving facilitators supplemental questions that help elicit optimal, positive couple discussion.
- is user-friendly for diverse populations: 6 editions, 6 languages.
- offers three options for scoring: online administration, Quick Score entry or mail-in service.

FACILITATOR TRAINING

November 21, 2011

ABOUT THE TRAINER

Tom Schulte is a Certified National FOCCUS Trainer and international speaker who has delivered hundreds of motivating, content-rich presentations to associations, corporations, churches, conferences and civic organizations throughout the U.S., Canada, South Africa and Australia. Tom's ability to teach from his experience as a FOCCUS Facilitator combined with his enthusiasm make his presentations and workshops dynamic, motivating, and worthwhile.

This interactive workshop is designed for individuals helping couples prepare for marriage, who wish to become certified FOCCUS facilitators.

Participants are trained to:

- administer and interpret the FOCCUS inventory,
- understand the research-based constructs measured by the FOCCUS inventory, and
- use the resulting couple report to help couples engage in the marriage preparation process right from the start.

Facilitators help couples communicate positively about issues they may not have thoroughly addressed and apply what they learn toward enhancing their future relationship as a married couple.

In order to be certified as a facilitator and begin using FOCCUS with couples, participants must agree to appropriate use of the FOCCUS Inventory and register with FOCCUS, Inc. USA.

REFOCCUS

Training also includes information about REFOCCUS, a self-administered marriage enrichment inventory suitable for couples who have been married for more than two years. REFOCCUS is a pencil-paper inventory that does not need a trained Facilitator and is a wonderful resource for your organization's couples.
